

PHILIP KAMRASS/The Record

Breaking the ice

Army vessel operator Mike Knaggs, a West Point employee, helps moor the Coast Guard Cutter Perobscot Bay yesterday at West Point. The cutter spent the day breaking ice and checking some of the 200 navigational aids on the Hudson River between New York and Albany. The 140-foot-long, 2,500-horsepower icebreaker carries a crew of 17, and is based in Governors Island.