

Command Philosophy
CGC DIAMONDBACK

We will be ready to execute missions safely and effectively. Our job onboard DIAMONDBACK will be challenging and rewarding, and I am fully committed to your personal and professional growth. I will perform my duties to the best of my ability; I expect and require the same of you. My Command Philosophy lays out my top priorities for our crew.

Safety:

Our line of work is inherently dangerous and we rely on each other to safely complete the mission. We will keep each other mentally and physically strong.

Team:

We are all part of a high performance team that must work together to succeed. There is no them or they, only us and we; we are in this together.

Balance:

Work to maintain a balance between your personal life, your family, and the mission. Take the time to develop yourself and others, both personally and professionally.

Communication:

We must maintain open communications across all levels of the chain of command and remain approachable at all times.

Confidence:

Become competent and confident in your abilities; proficiency yields confidence. Our training program is the backbone of a successful operational mission.

Honor:

Everything we do represents the Coast Guard and the DIAMONDBACK.

Positive:

Stay positive in all we say and do.

LTJG J. G. Ariail
Commanding Officer
CGC DIAMONDBACK (WPB 87370)