Hi. I am feeling better now. It took a long time for the excedrine to kick in, but after sitting in my massage chair for 15min & eating some lunch (chilli & french fries, how healthy), I am feeling much better. I think I'll still get my cold press out of the fridge & sit here with it on my forehead while I watch Desparate Housewives. I haven't tried the internet yet today but hope it'll be working tonight. I look forward to chatting with you - I want to hear all about your kayaking & diving. I've heard rumors that the CO would like to have our hull inspected soon & I know the scientists would like us to look at the transducer wells.... So I am going to submit another dive plan but am going to try to pull the strings that since it is only a visual inspect, we should all dive together otherwise I won't be able to & neither of them have used a dry suit before. We'll see. Oops will probably sit on it again & not submit it, but that will just give me more ammo to go to the command with. I am getting extremely close to talking to the XO about a "personnel issue". Honestly, isn't that what we have here? Isn't this the kind of stuff that the XO is supposed to deal with? Or the Human Relations Committee? He is making life here very difficult for numerous people. Anyway, I can't think about it too much or my tension & headache will come back. I'm going to go stick my head in the morale committee mtg, then watch tv. I love you.
