

Monthly Overall Reasons for Awaiting Information (AI)

November 2013

The count of reasons is determined when the data to compose the letter is entered into the database. This count is different from the ISSUED data because most of these credentials have not been issued yet; the AI letter has just been composed.

This graph depicts the count of reasons entered, by evaluation branch, for the current month.

This website contains information about avoiding AI when an application is submitted. Look for links, frequently asked questions, and tips on each webpage.
