Coast Guard Band Joins New York Philharmonic in July 4th Celebrations

This year the US Coast Guard Band had the distinct pleasure of joining the world famous New York Philharmonic in concerts on July 3rd and 4th at the Philharmonic’s home of Avery Fischer Hall at Lincoln Center. To open this special pair of sold out concerts, Maestro Bramwell Tovey led the Philharmonic with Aaron Copland’s Four Dance Episodes from Rodeo and followed by bringing principal trombonist and virtuoso Joe Alessi to the front of the stage to premiere the orchestral version of a trombone concerto entitled Lincoln Tunnel Cabaret, written by the conductor himself.

The Coast Guard Band opened the second half of the concerts with Captain Megan at the helm, performing John Philip Sousa’s The Glory of the Yankee Navy and following with Masque by British composer Kenneth Hesketh. Captain Megan then chose to pay tribute to the City of New York and legendary conductor Leonard Bernstein (New York Philharmonic Music Director 1958-1969, Laureate Conductor 1969-1990) by performing selections from Bernstein’s Candide.

The Philharmonic and Coast Guard Band concluded the concerts with a grand collaboration, joining forces to honor all past and present service members by performing the Service Medley, led by Captain Megan. Maestro Tovey continued the patriotic celebration by conducting the Sousa marches Hands Across the Sea and The Liberty Bell. The combined ensembles sent the enthusiastic audiences on their way with rousing renditions of The Stars and Stripes Forever, conducted first by Maestro Tovey, with Captain Megan returning to the podium to conduct a second encore performance.

These collaborative concerts were certain highlights of the year for members of the Coast Guard Band and audiences alike. Being in one of the greatest cities in the world with two of the greatest ensembles in the world made for an unforgettable two days and was a perfect way to celebrate America’s Independence Day.

The Coast Guard Band was very happy to renew its traditional participation in the Grand Haven Coast Guard Festival on the shores of Lake Michigan and the Grand River. What began as a picnic for Coast Guard members in 1924 took on its official status as Coast Guard Festival beginning in 1937. Today the Festival encompasses a week of family-friendly activities including a carnival, concerts, memorial ceremony, parade, and fireworks.

On August 2 the Band was honored at the Coast Guard Festival with the unveiling of a newly commissioned painting, “Strike up the Band,” by Bryan Snuffer. The painting depicts Captain Kenneth Megan conducting; MUC Kelly Watkins, MU1 Chris Lane, and MUCS Joel Flunker on trumpet; and MU1 Jeff Emerich and MUC Josh Thomas on saxophone. You’ll notice that Coast Guard Academy cadet marching units are also portrayed.

Captain Lewis J. Buckley, USCG ret., was also given special recognition honoring his 1981 composition of the march “Coast Guard City, USA.” The title refers to Grand Haven’s long cherished nickname, which was finally made official by a 1998 Act of Congress. The piece is performed whenever the Coast Guard Band visits Grand Haven, and this summer Captain Buckley was invited back to lead a definitive rendition.

The Coast Guard Band performed at several festival events including the National Memorial Ceremony remembering the fate of the first cutter Escanaba, sunk by a German torpedo in 1943 with the loss of all but two crew members, as well as all other Coast Guard men and women who have given their lives in service to our nation. The Escanaba was the first USCG Cutter home ported in Grand Haven and the annual ceremony takes place in the aptly named Escanaba Park.

Another highlight of the Festival was the Coast Guard Band’s August 2 evening concert featuring marches, patriotic vocal arrangements, and a rousing set by the USCG Dixieland Band.
