General Guidelines

The Coast Guard Ceremonial Band, a group of 21 musicians pulled from the 54 piece Concert Band, is the preferred group for ceremonial support. While large enough to provide full military band support indoors and out, it is small enough to keep associated travel costs down and allows some flexibility in scheduling of the band.

Host units are required to fund all costs associated with the event. Transportation and all incidental expenses connected with the event must be provided. Lodging costs and per diem as determined by Joint Federal Travel Regulations (JFTR) would likely be necessary if the event is located more than 150 miles from the Band's home base of New London, CT. Several factors, including distance, estimated overall travel time, actual time of event, and the band's overall schedule, are analyzed to determine the potential need for lodging and/or meals.

When one-way travel distance exceeds 30 miles, a coach-type bus is required to transport Band and equipment to and from the performance site. The bus must be heated/air conditioned to meet local climate conditions and contain a restroom.

School-type or similar military buses are suitable for local travel of less than 30 miles one-way, but cannot accommodate musical instruments. When this type of bus is used, a CLOSED-VAN truck with a bed of at least eighteen (18) feet in length is required to transport musical instruments. The bus must be heated/air conditioned to meet local climate conditions.

The Ceremonial Band requires a stage area of at least 20' X 20'. A raised platform is preferable, but if not available, LEVEL ground is an absolute necessity. If the event is outdoors, a tent should be provided if the area is excessively windy, cold, and/or has a high probability of rain.

When adverse weather conditions (rain, snow, electrical storm) occur at the time of the scheduled outdoor event, the Ceremonial Band Director will perform a risk assessment. If damage to instruments is likely, the Band Director reserves the right to withdraw participation in the event. For example, damage to musical instruments as a result of a rainstorm could cost more than $5,000 to repair or replace.

The Band will need 21 sturdy chairs, without arms. The Band will provide music stands.

Area lighting should be used under a tent if natural light is dim – area should be bright enough to read newspaper print without difficulty. If lighting is not available, please inform the band to arrange for battery operated stand lights.

Once the request form is received and evaluated, the Band Scheduler will contact the POC as to the status of the request. If approved, a member of the Band Operations team would then be assigned to coordinate all logistics between the requestor and the Band.

Please feel free to contact the Band Scheduler with any questions. Contact info is at the top of the form.
