Government Postage Stamps Acquiring New Look

The government postage stamps that Auxiliarists are accustomed to seeing will be slowly phased out and replaced by regular U. S. postage stamps. ANSC has begun the transition and will be supplying a mixture of types with various denominations until the existing government stamp inventory is depleted. Auxiliarists are requested to use government postage stamps on hand or received from ANSC first before using the commercial postage stamps. As a reminder to all Auxiliarists, they are accountable for the proper use of the stamps as defined in the Auxiliary Manual. Please add proper postage amount to your mail - See: Postal Rates Chart
 Stamps may be ordered from ANSC using the appropriate order form.

Note: When sending out packages, shipment cost will be based on your zip code zone classification. To calculate your shipping cost, please go to <https://postcalc.usps.com/>. Your zone classification can be determined by going to <https://postcalc.usps.com/Zonecharts/> and entering the first three digits of your zip code. 	Government Postage Stamps Acquiring New Look The government postage stamps that Auxiliarists are accustomed to seeing will be slowly phased out and replaced by regular U. S. postage stamps. ANSC has begun the transition and will be supplying a mixture of types with various denominations until the existing government stamp inventory is depleted. Auxiliarists are requested to use government postage stamps on hand or received from ANSC first before using the regular stamps. As a reminder to all Auxiliarists, they are accountable for the proper use of the stamps as defined in the Auxiliary Manual.
