The Coast Guard Recruiter is in your neighborhood

This Coast Guardsman has an unusual search mission.

Usually he's searching for distressed ships, for victims of floods or marine disasters.

But now he's looking for outstanding young men who want to build a career of rewarding service to humanity and satisfy their military obligation in the Coast Guard.

Find out from him how you can help protect lives and property, and serve your nation.

If you can't stop by, fill out and mail coupon.

The Coast Guard needs good men.

Period.

The Coast Guard is a small service with a big job. Its men are trained to be specialists. And whether you are rescuing people in distress, studying the ocean, operating a computer or working on an ice-breaker, you are judged by how well you do it.

Period.

Right now there are black Coast Guardsmen serving from seaman to Commander, from radarman to aviator, from Academy cadet to Academy professor. Ask them about it.

The United States Coast Guard. A whole new frontier of opportunities. Excitement. Further education. Service to humanity.

To learn more about careers through Officer Candidate School (for college graduates), enlistment, or the Coast Guard Academy (for recent high school graduates), send in this coupon. Or see a Coast Guard recruiter.
